Indications Point to Reopening of Hostilities Before Week Passes

TRUCE NEAR AN END

Radical Republicans Clamor For Starting of Warfare Against British

DUBLIN, Aug. 17.—Eamonn de Valera, head of the Sinn Fein government today turned down the English peace proposals. This action had been foreshadowed in his defiant speech of Tuesday opening Dail Eireann when he said that the Sinn Fein insisted upon an Irish republic and could not negotiate with the English government because it had no principle.

There is every prospect that the armistice will be broken off and hostilities will re-open in Ireland before another week has elapsed. Leaders of the Irish Republican army declared at the opening of Dail Eireann that they would not attack the English unless they were attacked first, but it is known that the radical Republicans in the Cork area have been clamoring for a reopening of warfare against the British and the Sinn Fein chieftains have had a hard time restraining them.

When the truce went into effect both the Irish and the English gave pledges that a reasonable time would be given by both sides if it was decided to end the armistice.

English troops on leave of absence are returning to their regiments in Ireland, indicating that the British government believes that fighting may be renewed at any time.

Dail Eireann met in secret session today for a detailed personal report by de Valera on his peace negotiations with Premier Lloyd George.

The Irish press was not entirely sympathetic with the attitude taken by de Valera and the heads of the Irish Republican army. The Irish Times, in its editorial comment said:

"Premier Lloyd George's offer was everything that the heart and the nation could desire. We are convinced that Dail Eireann will not withhold from Ireland because they are patriotic men and women. We pray that wisdom will guide their counsels in the cold gray dawn which is breaking over Ireland's darkened skies. May there burst through the leaden clouds God's glorious sunshine in the form of blessed peace."

The Irish Bulletin referred to General Smuts' letter, pointing out that Premier Lloyd George's offer fell short of dominion form of government for Ireland.

"No dominion could tolerate for a moment any of the conditions laid down by the Premier," said the Irish Bulletin. "Dominion status has a definite meaning and importance. That meaning is not to be found in the English peace offer."

A general order was read to the Irish Republican army today to prepare for any contingency. The order forecast that the Republican soldiers would be called upon to make greater sacrifices than at any time in the past.

Doomed to be "Roasted to Death" Fontane in Prison

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Doomed to be "Roasted to death" because he knew too much, Bartolomeo Fontane, sae in prison, was today directing New York detectives to the men he claims responsible for 51 secret killings on the Atlantic seaboard and as far west as Detroit. Fontane himself admits several murders, including one on July 30, at Avon, N. J.

Eight men, alleged leaders of the Bonventro gang, which Fontane claims is the American branch of the Camorra which has its headquarters in Palermo, Italy, are in custody and more arrests are expected momentarily.

At the command of a chief in Palermo, Fontane says he murdered Carmilio Calozzo on July 30. He was told that unless he killed Calozzo accused of the murder of brother of one of the Camorra chieftains, he would be killed himself, he says.

Accuses Priest of Saying Her Daughter Lured Men

South Langhorne Woman Enters Suit, Charging Clergyman With Circulating Scandalous Stories Concerning 16-year-old Girl's Actions on the Porch at Midnight.

Suit has been filed in the Bucks County Court against the Rev. Chas. F. Schilpp, a Catholic priest at South Langhorne. The clergyman is charged with circulating what are alleged to be false statements about Mrs. Catherine B. Cornwall, of South Langhorne. These are said to be to the effect that the prosecutor's 16 year old daughter was a principal in scandalous lovemaking scenes on the front porch of her mother's home at midnight. Mrs. Cornwall, is asking $10,000 damages from the clergyman on the ground that her good name and reputation in the neighborhood have been damaged.

The case will probably be called for trial at the October term of civil court.

Mrs. Cornwall, who is a married woman living with her husband in South Langhorne, alleges that Rev. Schilpp, on April 3, stated to Mr. and Mrs. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Marlin and Mr. and Mrs. Burnett, of South Langhorne, among others things, that Mrs. Cornwall was "keeping a disorderly house."

Mrs. Cornwall also sets forth that Rev. Schilpp told South Langhorne persons that her daughter had made advances to a man "one midnight" while both were on the porch, and that nine different men had been seen entering and leaving the Cornwall house at late hours during the night.

The case is causing a great deal of discussion and interest in Langhorne and South Langhorne.

Bucks County Farmers Tour Mercer County

Visit Model Farms and Inspect Growing Crops and Blooded Herds

INSPECT BUILDINGS

See Model and Modern Barns, Stables and Piggeries In New Jersey

Under the direction of Bucks County Agricultural Agent N. E. Garber, over 200 members of the Bucks County Farm bureau yesterday visited Mercer County Agent Barnhart, in return for a similar trip made by Mercer county farmers through Bucks county last year.

The visitors, who made the trip in automobiles, crossed the river at Washington's Crossing and went to the farm of John H. Kenneth Hankinson at Marshall's corner to inspect the extensive piggery conducted there and the fruit farm. The men were given an interesting talk on methods of raising Duroc Jersey hogs for pork, and orcharding by Mr. Hankinson.

The farm of Carl Schmidt, at Ewingville, was visited for the purpose of inspecting Mr. Schmidt's herd of fine bred Holstein Friesian cattle. Mr. Schmidt explained the fine points of various individual animals and cited their records. He also showed the farmers a new bullpen of an exceptionally practical type that he is having constructed and in which the men were greatly interested.

Upon the invitation of Warden Samuel Atchley of the New Jersey State hospital, the party journeyed to the hospital dairy farms, where they had luncheon. Inspection was then made of the herd of high-bred cattle kept to furnish milk for patients. Using cows from the herd as examples, Mr. Atchley explained point by point how the herd has been tested for tuberculosis. He declared it was no greater expense to keep fine bred cows than a herd of inferior ones.

A visit was also made to the farm of Mrs. H. C. Scudder at Trenton Junction for the purpose of seeing an old farm barn which Mrs. Scudder is having remodeled into a very modern dairy barn. Mrs. Scudder's herd was also inspected and caused much favorable comment.

The farmers returned home by way of Yardley after expressing themselves as being highly gratified with the result of the tour.

John McCullough To Be Buried Tomorrow

John McCullough, of Pine street, who died at the home of his sister-in-law, 644 Corson street, last Monday, will be buried tomorrow morning at ten o'clock from the same address.

Mr. McCullough formerly conducted a store on Pine street and was well and favorably known throughout the town. He had made Bristol his residence for many years. When ill he was taken to the home of Miss Kate Dugan, his sister-in-law, where he died.

Requiem high mass will be celebrated in St. Mark's church tomorrow morning. Burial will be in St. Mark's cemetery.

The deceased was a native of Ireland. He came to Bristol to live about 25 years ago and had resided here ever since. His death was caused by heart trouble. His illness extended over a period of three years and he had been confined to his home for the past year. He is survived by his wife, who is a well known resident of the Fourth Ward.

York Boy Scouts were granted permission by Council to set up wireless apparatus in the Municipal Building.

By International News Service.

London, Aug. 17.—So delicate is the Irish situation considered that a statement which the British Cabinet had planned for Lloyd George to make to the House of Commons this afternoon was cancelled at the last minute. The statement was prepared at a meeting of the Cabinet just before noon. Austine Chamberlain, arose in the House and said, "it is not desirable that any statement be made on the Irish situation at this time."

New York, Aug. 17.—McClure's Magazine, Inc., was today given into the hands of the receivers, as a result of equity proceedings in the United States District Court. John B. Johnson and Charles Myles were named as receivers by Judge Manton. The bond of the receivers was placed at $20,000. The liabilities are said to be in excess of $250,000. No statement of the assets was made.

HARRIMAN TENANTS' POVERTY AND DISTRESS DUE TO PROPAGANDA

Optimistic Stories Led Townsite Residents to Believe Work Was Near

CONDITION IS GRAVE

Welfare Association Treasury Exhausted But Need of Help Increases Daily

Statements, having no foundation whatever in fact, that the Merchants Shipyard, at Harriman would be reopened and that ample work be provided for all, are blamed by many residents of the Harriman townsite for conditions of poverty and distress which now exist in that community.

Fed, week by week, upon optimistic propaganda which had no truth back of it, many of the residents have been cajoled into believing that they had only to hang on a little while longer, when things would boom again at the yard and they would be relieved of their lack of employment and financial stringency.

Many families are in distress and are selling their furniture piece by piece, as a means of procuring money with which to purchase food.

The funds of the Harriman Welfare Association are exhausted. An auxiliary organization has been formed to gather funds with which to aid those who are now in want and to prepare for the coming Winter, which is looked forward to with horror.

These are the conditions in the townsite as learned from a personal investigation by the Courier today.

A monster block party and lawn fete is to be staged on Pond street, Harriman, opposite the Boy Scouts Headquarters, Tuesday evening, August 23rd. The affair will be held from eight until midnight. The Bristol Jazz Orchestra Band will furnish the music for dancing on the concrete street. There will be numerous other amusements and attractions. The proceeds of the affair are to be used for the Harriman Welfare Association.

The auxiliary organization having the Block Party and Lawn Fete in charge is as follows:—

Site Committee: Chief Aungst, Mrs. Ford, Mrs. Moyer.

Refreshment Committee: Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. Lynn, Mrs. Ulrich.

Publicity Committee: L. D. Goheen, Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. Ford, Mrs. Moyer.

Music Committee: Mrs. Rhine, P. R. Boardman, Mrs. Moyer.

Dance Committee: Chief Aungst, Mrs. Ford, Mr. Stockett.

With the serving of the notices of eviction by the government to the 124 families in the bungalows and apartments heated by the central heating plant, an inkling of the poverty existing at the townsite came to light.

The Welfare Association called for help from the other residents of the war time village and an auxiliary organization was formed.

Harriman, Pa.
August 15, 1921

Mr. A. D. Lasker, Chairman,
United States Shipping Board,
Emergency Fleet Corporation,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

We, the Storekeepers of Harriman, Pa., which is a project operated by the Emergency Fleet Corporation, respectfully request that you reconsider the recent ruling of the Transportation & Housing Division, whereby the tenants of the apartments on the townsite will be deprived of their homes when the Winter sets in, owing to the fact that the Heating Plant will be shut down, and there are no other facilities to heat the apartments.

You will appreciate that this will be a great detriment to the several businesses of the undersigned, and also that it will cause dire distress among the people of the townsite, who will have to look elsewhere for homes, which are at present almost unobtainable.

We believe that a petition has been addressed to you by the tenants effected and we take this opportunity of adding our voices to theirs with the hopes that you will be kind enough to investigate the action already taken, as we believe an injustice is being done.

Yours respectfully

Petition of Those Under Eviction Notice.

Harriman, Pa., August 11, 1921.

Mr. A. D. Lasker, Chairman,
United States Shipping Board,
Emergency Fleet Corporation,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

A notice, a copy of which is attached hereto, has been individually received by the tenants of the Harriman Townsite, a project operated by the United States Shipping Board, Emergency Fleet Corporation, of which you are Chairman.

We, as citizens of the United States, protest emphatically against the action of Mr. W. T. Towers, Housing & Transportation Department, Philadelphia, Pa., in depriving the tenants of their rights in this matter.

The leases read that the tenants will be furnished with heat from October 1st to May 1st at the respective rentals, and the rent paid during the summer is part of the winter heating cost.

The townsite was built in connection with the Shipyard at Harriman, and, on account of the scarcity of labor, it was necessary to secure same from all over the country, which necessitated these people moving their families to their place of employment.

Now that the shipyard is closed these people are living here, some have been successful in securing positions in the immediate neighborhood, some are unable to obtain work and are living on their savings during more prosperous times, and the issuance of such a drastic order, as that attached, is one of the most inhuman actions imaginable, in view of the fact that housing conditions are such as makes it almost impossible to secure homes.

As it is our opinion that the person responsible for the issuance of this order does not understand the conditions in Harriman Townsite, we are bringing the matter to your attention, knowing that when the facts are put before you in the proper light you will be able to see the injustice that is being done.

Owing to the construction of the buildings it is impossible to heat these houses other than with the present heating system, and it simply means that these tenants are evicted as soon as the cold weather sets in, as it is a physical impossibility for families, especially these having children, to endure under such conditions.

In view of the foregoing, we humbly ask you, in your good offices, to investigate the above conditions when we feel sure you will see the justice of our petitioning you in this matter.

Respectfully yours,

Of the 124 families which today face the condition of being put out on the street, 58 are in arrears with their rent. "They have stayed here from day to day expecting the optimistic stories which appeared in some of the newspapers to the effect that the yard was to open were true," said one resident of Harriman today. "As a result, they have gradually spent every dollar they had and today are without food and money."

As an illustration a case was cited as follows:

A family of man, wife and two children. One child, 15 months old, became ill and it was feared that it had spinal meningitis. The attending physician advised that a specialist be consulted. One was procured and his bill was $52. The family was without funds but their home had been comfortably furnished during the boom. A Victrola was sold to pay the specialist's bill.

Next went the player piano and piece by piece the furniture has been disposed of, until today there remains a chair apiece for each of the family, bed, crib and a table. A coach costing $35 was sold for $3 in order that food might be placed in the mouths of the household.

A milkman carried the family along on credit until he said that he would have to stop serving them. The mother sold her bath room rug costing $5.50 for 50 cents and bought three days milk supply for the infant of the family.

Today the Welfare Association has a larger list of families on their weekly list than at any one time since organization.

Resigned couples without work and no resources face ejection and starvation.

When the work at the shipyard closed these people had money but it has dwindled from day to day as the families have continued to live in the townsite without employment but fed on the propaganda that the yard was likely to open at any time.

The Harriman Welfare Association is composed of the following officers:

Ex-president—Mrs. Matilda Overlack.

President—Mrs. Anna Moyer.

Secretary—Mrs. M. R. Ford.

Treasurer, Prof. S. K. Faust.

Paul R. Boardman and Chief Arthur Aungst are active members who are working for the relief of those in need.

In the report of the Welfare Association filed July 30th, the following figures are given for the six months previous:

Cases investigated	40
Cases added	36
Cases added for the entire six months	20
Cash receipts	$276.27
Cash expended for clothing, new shoes and repairing old shoes	$34.39;
Cash expended for food and milk	$175.68;
Cash expended for railroad fares paid for those hunting positions in other towns	$15.57.

The status of those in the 124 bungalows and apartments remains unchanged today. The petitions are being circulated and are being signed almost universally by the entire townsite section.

Samuel Patton is to place the petitions in the hands of Congressman Watson as a means of jumping over the preliminaries. Mr. Watson will take the matter up directly with Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board. Quick action is needed.

Mr. A. D. Lasker, Chairman,
United States Shipping Board,
Emergency Fleet Corporation,

Dear Sir:

We, residents of the private houses in Harriman, Pa., though not effected by the recent ruling which will deprive our fellow citizens of the services of the Heating Plant, during the coming Winter, thereby making it necessary for them to secure homes elsewhere, which is almost impossible at the present time, respectfully request that the order, which we believe will cause dire distress, and inconvenience, be rescinded or modified.

We believe that a petition has been addressed to you by the tenants effected, and we take this opportunity of adding our voices to theirs with the hopes that you will be kind enough to investigate the action already taken, as we believe an injustice is being done.

THE HARRIMAN EVICTION

The move toward closing up 124 houses in the Harriman townsite is decidedly contrary to the glowing publicity which the management of the Shipping Board village has been giving it, in an effort to induce prospective tenants to come here and rent the houses.

In fact, the very houses which are to be closed are among those which have been advertised. Persons who have been contemplating coming here to avail themselves of the advertised advantages of residence in the Harriman townsite houses will probably thank their lucky stars that the advertisements had not as yet fully persuaded them.

The Government officials should have decided long since that the shipyard village, or the portion of it which is affected by the intended closure of the heating plant, would not be a paying proposition in winter and taken steps to have it vacated gradually.

The summary step which is now proposed can not but work hardships on the 124 families occupying the houses. If the ejectment notice they have received is not rescinded they will have to look for homes at a period when houses are scarce. Houses are not plentiful at all at the end of Summer, when people who have been living in Summer resorts come back to the cities and nearby to look for homes for the winter.

The management of the townsite lays the blame for the eviction and the closing of the heating plant directly on the policy of economy which Chairman Lasker of the United States Shipping Board, is carrying out all through that organization.

It is rather cruel economy which causes suffering to a number of people of moderate circumstances who have been relying on the Government as their landlord. No doubt a number of these tenants were induced to come here to reside by the advertising and other publicity given the townsite houses.

The threatened victims of the wholesale ejectment did right in holding a meeting of vehement protest against such summary disposition. The justice of their complaint cannot but appeal to those in Washington who control the destinies of the United States Shipping Corporation and its housing enterprises.

The indignant villagers will no doubt have a vigorous champion in Congressman Henry W. Watson, of the Bucks-Montgomery District to whom they have entrusted their petition, and his efforts, and the esteem in which he is held in official circles in Washington, will at least secure careful review from the highest executives of the Shipping Board, if not by Chairman Lasker.

REGULATION OF GRAIN MARKETS

The Capper-Tincher bill for the regulation of the grain exchanges is a measure whose practical effects cannot as yet be foreseen with positiveness. Being a revolutionary measure, intended, as its authors and proponents have said, to eradicate speculative abuses from grain trading and simultaneously protect legitimate business and operations, its efficacy will be demonstrated by the actual differentiation between right and wrong.

A sequence of this legislation which may be expected, at some time in the future, is the framing of laws applicable to agricultural cooperation associations to restrain them from manipulating prices and to labor organizations to make them liable and responsible under contracts or agreements. Among thoughtful labor leaders and manufacturers there already is apparent a growing idea that such legislation would be beneficial in a general way.

The Capper-Tincher bill aims to curb market manipulations by large speculators, promiscuous and unrestricted speculation in foodstuffs, dissemination of false crop reports, and artificial interference with the natural laws of supply and demand. Senator Capper declared in the most earnest and scathing terms that large speculators manipulate the markets at seasonal periods so as to depress prices to the detriment of the farmers and then to elevate them to the disadvantage of the public.

The law probably will turn out to be not merely so deranging or destructive as its opponents have anticipated with resentment and fear. Interpretation and enforcement rest with three Cabinet officers, and their action would be subject to court review. And the authors of the bill have said that they did not contemplate any transgression against legitimate business.

That there are abuses in the exchange which should be rooted out is generally known. The speculative feature of grain trading is parasitical, and it is an unnecessary and injurious adjunct of grain exchanges. If the Capper-Tincher law eliminates the abuses, yet does not disturb legitimate operations, it will prove to be a good law. Should it interfere with or restrain proper functioning of exchanges, it can be amended. As an experiment it is worthy of a fair trial for the good that it may do.

ADDICTION NOT DISCARDED

The deaf and dumb mendicant's system of begging with a printed card and a pair of hungry, glowing eyes has been reversed by the well-known woodchopper of Holland. This common laborer has been besieged by former subjects with so many calls for money and help, that he has had the following letter printed and circulated:

"In view of the high cost of living in Holland it is barely possible to meet necessary expenses with German currency. His majesty is unfortunately unable to grant the desired financial aid."

As the doughboy would say, "Where does he get that 'his majesty' stuff?" And as the more inquisitive would like to know, where does he get the German currency from?

The people of Germany cannot afford to keep on passively recognizing the obsolete theory of the divine right of the royal family, or paying tacit tribute to respectability and nobility which rest on the myth of genealogical superiority. They should rid themselves charitably, yet firmly, of him and whatever claims he may imagine he has by liquidating his endowment policy in full, and tapping their temples with the fore-finger when they hear "his majesty" uttered.

Imperialism has been moribund for two years in Germany. The republic is two years old, and it is quite strong and healthy, and is able to grow and thrive without the overbearing pedagogy of a so-called royal line. The Germans are a great people, and their aptitude and talent for organization and mass action should assure to them permanent and successful republicanism. And the Germans relish old jokes, as well as good beer.

Former Cabinet Member Head of Child Labor Body

David Franklin Houston, who was successively Secretary of Agriculture and Secretary of the Treasury in the Cabinet of President Wilson, has been named chairman of the National Child Labor Committee to succeed Dr. Felix Adler, who resigned after seventeen years' effective service as head of the organization.

The committee has recently inaugurated a campaign to awaken public opinion to the evil of child labor in agriculture, corrective legislation having largely mitigated that formerly existing in industrial plants. There are many thousands of boys and girls between the ages of five and fifteen employed in the beet fields of Michigan and Colorado, the tobacco plantations of Kentucky and Connecticut and the cotton fields of Oklahoma, Texas and Imperial Valley, California; the berry fields of Michigan and California, the cranberry bogs of New Jersey, the onion fields of Ohio and on the truck farms of Delaware. Statistics of school absence in these districts are appalling and the committee aims to arouse popular sentiment to a pitch where existing compulsory school attendance laws will be enforced.

Funds are needed by the committee to carry on its work. Its headquarters are at 105 East Twenty-second Street, New York City. Owen R. Lovejoy is general secretary and V. Everit Macy treasurer, to whom contributions may be sent.

OBSERVATIONS

Flowers are often sent to condemned murderers by sentimental people, but no one has sent any yet to the tax dodgers who are being jailed.

Some folks who in recent months have attempted to fix their own pay, have had plenty of leisure this year in which to decide how much they are worth.

Mrs. Harding is reported to dress with taste and discretion. Many women succeed in the first named respect, but not so much so in the last named quality.

Some people's gardens did not come up because the gardeners failed to soak their seeds, while others apparently needed to soak their heads.

The Growth of Advertising

The Sixth of a Series of Editorials Showing How Advertising Has Increased During the Past Few Years.

People who never made a thorough trial of advertising, have no conception of the way people will respond to it. The Martin V. Kelly company of Toledo, O., specialists in automobile advertising, have made the following remarkable statement:—

"It is perfectly marvelous to see how a series of advertisements on any particular line run intelligently and continuously in the newspapers, will send the sales up almost in a perpendicular direction."

The Van Camp Packing company, after considering a sampling plan for the city of Chicago, found it would be far cheaper to use newspaper advertising and key the copy with a coupon. As a result of one week's campaign in a newspaper, they received 107,000 coupons. And yet some people will tell you that no one reads advertising.

Recently a page advertisement of Djer-King appeared simultaneously in six newspapers. After the advertising was three weeks old, the manufacturer reported that it was still drawing and up to that time he had received 31,000 dimes by mail asking for samples of perfume. The cost of this advertising was not over $6000, and the 10 cent pieces sent for the sample brought back half of the cost, besides building up a tremendous good will and public interest.

The Bristol Courier could go on and on, giving specific instances of the romantic triumphs of advertising. The instances given have related largely to national and big city advertising. But the same principles apply with even greater force to local advertising in a city like Bristol. In communities like ours the papers are read more intensively and thoroughly than the big metropolitan sheets are. With the power of advertising abundantly demonstrated, with knowledge of the golden fortunes it has built up it seems strange that there are any merchants who feel content to get along without it.

Moon's tapping on their feed-plate, they hurriedly rush to her, and eat from the dish or her hands with perfect freedom from fear. Mr. Moon's garden is free from devastating bugs and insects as the pheasants are most active in freeing plants from these intruders.

They heard a cat-lard singing in a near thicket as they left their camp. It reminded Bim of her favorite ballad and she sang it with the spirit of old:

"My sweetheart, come along—
Don't you hear the glad song
As the notes of the nightingale flow?
Don't you hear the fond tale of the sweet nightingale
As she sings in the valleys below?
As she sings in the valleys below?"

They went on, shoulder-deep in the tall grass on the lower stretches of the prairie. Here and there it gave Harry the impression that he was swimming his horse in "noisy, vivid green water." They startled a herd of deer and a number of wild horses. When they lost sight of the woods at Plain's End the young man, with his cavalry training, was able to ride standing on his saddle until he had it located.

It reminded him of riding in the Everglades and he told of his adventures there as they went on, but very modestly. He said not a word of his heroic fight the day that he and sixty of his comrades were cut off and surrounded in the "land of the grassy waters." But Bim had heard the story from other lips.

Late in the afternoon the woods loomed in front of them, scarcely a mile off. Near the end of the prairie they came to a road which led them past the door of a lonely cabin. It seemed to be deserted, but its windows were clean and a faint column of smoke rose from its chimney. There were hollyhocks and sunflowers in its small and cleanly dooryard. A morning-glory vine had been trained around the windows.

"Broad creek is just beyond," said Bim. "I don't know how the crossing will be."

They came presently to the creek, unexpectedly swollen. A man stood on the farther shore with some seventy feet of deep and rapid water between him and the travelers.

"That man looks like Stephen Nuckles," said Harry.

"It is Stephen Nuckles," Bim answered.

"Howdy, Steve!" the young soldier called.

"Howdy, boy!" said the old minister. "That ar creek is b'llin' over. I reckon you'll have to swim the horses."

They tried, but Bim's horse refused to go beyond good footing.

"You kin light at that ar house an' spend the night, but the folks have gone away," the minister called.

"I guess you'll have to marry us right here and now," Harry proposed.

"Night is coming and that house is our only refuge."

"Poor boy! There seems to be no escape for you!" Bim exclaimed with a sigh. "Do you really and honestly want to marry me? If there's any doubt about it I'll leave the horses with you and swim the creek. You could put them in the barn and swim with me or spend the night in the cabin."

"It's a cool evening and the creek is very wet," he answered. "I'm going to take this matter in my own hands."

He called to the minister. "Steve, this is the luckiest moment of my life and you are just the man of all others who have chosen for its most important job. Can you stand right where you are and marry us?"

"You bet, I kin, suh," the minister answered. "I've often said I could marry any one half a mile away if they would only talk as loud as I kin."

"I've got the good book right here in my pocket, suh. My ol' woman is comin' 'She'll be hyah in a minute or to bless the peccadillo."

Mrs. Nuckles made her appearance on the river bank in a short time. Then the minister shouted: "We'll begin by readin' the nineteenth chapter of Matthew."

He shouted the chapter and the usual queries, knelt and prayed and pronounced them man and wife.

The young man and woman walked to the cabin and put their horses in its barn, where they found an abundance of hay and oats. They rapped at the cabin door, but got no response. They lifted its latch and entered.

A table stood in the middle of the room, set for two. On its cover of spotless white linen were plates and cups and saucers and a big platter of roasted prairie chickens and a great frosted cake and preserves and jellies and potato salad and a pie and a bottle of currant wine. A clock was ticking on the shelf. There were live embers in the fireplace and wood in the box, and venison hanging in the chimney.

The young soldier looked at it and smiled.

"This is wonderful!" he exclaimed.

"To whom are we indebted?"

"You don't think I'd bring you out here on the plains and marry you and not treat you well," Bim laughed. "I warned you that you'd have to take what came and that the hospitality would be simple."

"It's a noble and benevolent conspiracy that has turned this cabin into a paradise and brought all this happiness upon me," he said as he kissed her. "I thought it strange that Mr. Nuckles should be on hand at the right moment."

"The creek was a harder thing to manage!" she answered with a smile. "I told my messenger to see that the gate of the reservoir was opened at four o'clock. So, you see, you had to marry or swim. Now I've made a clean breast of it. I felt sure something would happen before you got back from Milwaukee. I was plum superstitious about it."

The young man shook with laughter and said: "You are the new woman born of the democracy of the West." "I began to fear that I should be an old woman before I got to be Mrs. Nuckles."

"Whose house is this?" he asked in a moment.

"It is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lukins. Their land near Chicago is now used for a cattle yard and slaughterhouse and is paying them a good income. They moved here some time ago. He looks after the reservoir. Mrs. Lukins is a famous cook, as you will see. We can stay here as long as we want to. We shall find everything we need in the well, the chimney, the buttery and the cellar. And here is the wedding supper all ready for us and I as hungry as a bear."

"In the words of Mrs. Lukins 'It is very copasetic,' and I begin to feel that I have made some progress in the study of Bim Kelso. Come, let's have our supper."

"Not until you have broiled a piece of venison. It will take a lot of food to satisfy me. I'll get the cream and butter out of the well and make a pot of coffee. Hurry up, Harry, I'm starving."

Paris Sponsors Summer Wraps

THREE names, world-renowned in the realms of fashion are signed to these three wraps for summer wear. It is easy to see at a glance that each of them is made to be a practical protection in climates that are not always genial, even in summer time, and that they embody styles that are not too fleeting. Paris has presented many wraps of many kinds this summer; the late arrivals among them forecasting a changed silhouette for fall. With all the instability of styles, transitions cannot be too abrupt and the wise French know it.

The graceful coat at the left can never be entirely out of style. It is made of light weight wool coating in tan color, with long semi-fitted body and moderately full skirt portion. The military collar, front facing and border at the bottom are of dark brown fur. The plain coat sleeves set snugly to the arms and are finished with a row of round, covered buttons on the forearm. The skirt of this coat is open at the front, disclosing the dress under it.

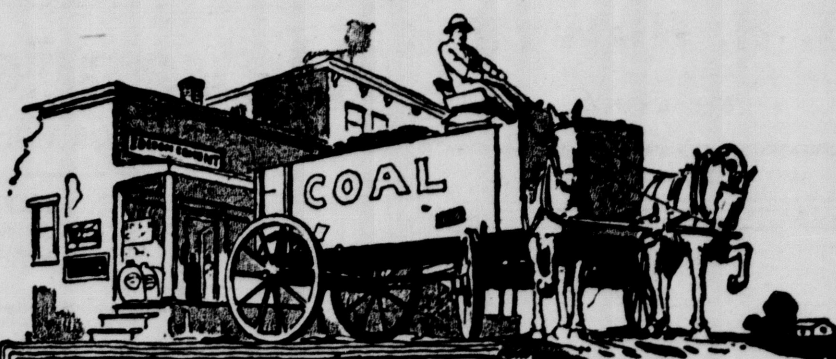

This season will be remembered as one of capes and capelike wraps. A cape of black satin lined with a lighter contrasting color is shown at the center of the picture. It has a scarf collar and long slits at the sides through which the arms may be thrust. For elegance and usefulness combined nothing excels a wrap of this kind.

The designer of the last wrap pictured must have cast a lingering and regretful glance backward—apparently he was lured by the long lines and casual adjustment of last winter's styles. This wrap is of smooth beige-colored wool cloth with an em placement of black satin, in a curious figure, at the bottom. An applique of the lighter cloth on the black ground makes an effective decoration. The very full collar is apparently a ruff of the coat material lined with black satin.

Open Fight On Tax Bill Today

House Agrees to Vote on Measure Next Saturday Afternoon

DEMOCRATS GET BUSY

BY A. O. HAYWARD
Staff Correspondent I. N. S.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The open fight against the tax revision bill began in the House today. With an agreement to vote on the bill at three o'clock Saturday afternoon, Democrats decided to make the most of their time in opposing the bill.

Opposition to the bill is being directed by representative Claude Kitchin, Democratic leader from his sick room in his home at Scotland Neck, N. C. Kitchin's views are being forwarded here by telegraph and will be incorporated in the minority report on the bill which will be filed late today.

It was decided today by the Democrats that they would insist the Republican tax plan would not yield the $3,500,000,000 necessary to a safe and sane conduct of the treasury and that the attempt to get along with less would result in a deficit destructive of orderly financing of the government. They claim that the decision of the Republicans to collect only $3,000,000,000 from internal revenues is bad financing.

Burn Negro's Body Taken From Hospital

AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 17.—A negro's body, believed to be that of Walter Smalley, a negro slain last night in a battle with police, was taken from a hospital here just before dawn this morning and burned by a mob of armed men. The charred body was then taken back to the hospital.

Smalley was slain by police after he had killed Benjamin T. Hightower, foreman of a wagon works where Smalley was employed, and then killed W. W. Moore, a policeman who sought to arrest him. Eight others were wounded by the negro, who armed with a shot-gun, fought off pursuing police.

The city was quiet today following a reign of excitement late yesterday when the negro Smalley, ran amuck with a gun. Besides the three killed, eight were injured.

Refused To Surrender Obenchain Trunk

BY CHARLES E. HUGHES
Staff Correspondent I. N. S.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 17.—The first battle in the defense of Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain, charged jointly with Arthur C. Burch with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy is under way today as the result of an attempt being made to prevent the state from seizing a trunk belonging to the accused woman which arrived here late yesterday.

After issuing orders to the management of the hotel which received the trunk not to allow anyone to touch it until a proper court order had been issued, Ralph Obenchain, divorced husband of the defendant announced his intention of obtaining a restraining order to prevent the authorities from opening the receptacle.

House To Recess By Aug. 23rd, Is Plan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The House will have disposed of important pending legislation and will be ready to recess on August 23, in accordance with the proposal of the Senate, Representative Mondell of Wyoming, the Republican leader, told President Harding today.

The administration bill to finance the exportation of agricultural products will be passed on Monday, Mondell said.

Doomed To Be "Roasted To Death"; Safe In Prison

The men arrested are charged with complicity in the death of Salozzo. They are: Stefano Magadinno, 30, of Brooklyn; Bartomeleo di Gregorio, a baker; Vito Bonzente, 46, a boot-maker; Giuseppe Lombardi, 40, a barber; Mariano Galante, 30, a painter, Francisco Tuma, 27.

The gang is said to be organized here in groups of fifteen and to have nearly half a million dollars in cash for the defense of members who are arrested in connection with its murders.

A Correction

It is J. B. Johnson who is a candidate for nomination as school director on Republican ticket and not Byram C. Johnson as stated in yesterday's Courier. Mr. Johnson's initials are "J. B." and not "B. C." as published yesterday.

FAMOUS FANS

'Round the Sport Circle

With Jack Veiock, International News Sporting Editor.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON, one of the grandest and without a doubt the greatest sportsman the world has ever known, is going to try once more to lift the historic America's Cup.

Four times, over a period of twenty-two years, has Sir Thomas attempted to win back the silver trophy, originally hung up in England and won and held in America ever since the first race around the Isle of Wight, seventy years ago the 22d day of this month. Four times this great yachtsman has met with disappointment, but he has not given up hope. He will make his fifth attempt in 1923.

The next challenger will be Shamrock V. Sir Tom will build her next year and sail her across the broad reaches of the Atlantic to try his luck once more over the famous Sandy Hook course. Announcement of Lipton's intention gave the American sporting public a thrill of deepest admiration for him. He has spent thousands upon thousands of dollars in his efforts to win a "mug" that originally cost but one hundred guineas, and he will spend another small fortune in his fifth try.

When the Shamrock IV, and the Resolute got away for their 1920 series, sentiment was with the Lipton yacht because of the gameness and persistence of her sponsor. So it will be again in 1923 when Shamrock V, spreads her wings in the breeze off the old Hook. No one can say this sentiment is a lack of loyalty. Such stick-to-it-iveness deserves victory.

Larry Hansen, the durable dane, has had 356 fights, but there's many a durable husband who has him beaten to a frazzle.

The more we hear of the Downey-Wilson imbroglio the more we are reminded that they don't make all the cheese in Holland.

"Jack McAuliffe has abandoned the ponies for the stage," says a headline. Jack abandoned them because they alienated his bankroll.

Michigan athletics are going to hurry up in all departments from now on. Sports at Ann Arbor will be given a new shot of ginger and it will be well for all rivals to look out for the Wolverines. Why?

Well, old man "Hurry Up" Fielding H. Yost is at the head of everything athletic at Michigan. We could have answered the question with just one word—"Yost"—a word that speaks volumes to readers of the sport pages.

For twenty long years Yost has been the boss of Michigan football. In that time he has turned out some of the greatest gridiron teams and stars the country has ever known and his record is emblazoned with success after success. He has won his reward—the dictatorship of all athletics at Michigan—and no man was ever more deserving. Good luck to you, ole "Hurry Up."

It may be a cruel cut, but we are prompted to remark that Jack Johnson will probably feel natural in every State where he is barred.

A Dempsey-Willard shindig is just in the offing at this writing. Tex Rickard is feeling the big Kansan out and seeking to draw out the public as well. Tex is a shrewd bird. He pays more attention to public opinion than he does to the fighters, and Willard's chances of getting a match promoted by Tex will depend largely on what the boxing public and the press say of it.

From this distance a Willard-Dempsey match, providing Willard really can and honestly will get into condition, looks like the only logical one in the near future and it will probably be made in due time. But we also believe that Willard should prove his fitness in a physical way by taking on at least one big husky before he meets Dempsey. A good many boxing fans have often speculated on what a Willard-Fulton match would be like, and it appears that such a match ought to be a good primer for Willard if he can get into shape. Dempsey beat Fulton in one round. If Willard cannot beat the big plasterer he has no right to a return match with Dempsey. In the event of a Willard-Fulton match Dempsey should agree to take the winner.

Molla B. Mallory Enthuses Crowd

Devotees Vote She is Greatest Woman Player in the World Today

DEFEATS HER RIVAL

BY JACK VEIOCK
(Sporting Editor I. N. S.)

FORREST HILLS, L. I., Aug. 17.—Molla B. Mallory is the greatest woman tennis player in the world.

This was the verdict today of thousands of ardent devotees of the net game who saw the Norse girl sweep Mlle Suzanna Lenglen, of France, from the courts in the brief space of one set.

Technically, Mlle. Lenglen may still be the international champion, but none who saw her default to the grim, determined and brilliant Molla after a swift and humiliating defeat in one set, attaches any importance to a mere technicality.

Mlle. Lenglen's sudden and surprising action in quitting the court came like a bolt from a clear sky. She pleaded inability to continue the match owing to a sudden recurrence of after-effects from an attack of bronchitis and was led to the club house coughing and weeping hysterically. Today, at Forest Hills Inn where Suzanna is stopping with her mother, it was said that she will be confined to her room for a day or two. Her physician according to attarhes at the Inn said her case is not a serious one but that she must have quiet and careful attention until relieved.

The one big regret of tennis fans today lies in the fact that Mlle Lenglen did not finish the match.

Coming to the U. S. hailed as the greatest woman tennis star, Mlle. Lenglen led American tennis fans to expect great things of her and the thousands who journeyed out here yesterday to see her meet Mrs. Mallory expected to see the tennis match of the century.

THEATRES

Forrest Theatre

In his latest picture, "The Lone Hand," Roy Stewart is using two of his proudest possessions, Pronto, his beautiful thoroughbred, and a wonderful Mexican saddle. These are all that he has left to show for his career as a cattle baron in Mexico. This picture will be shown at the Forrest Theatre tonight.

Roy Stewart's leap is one of the sensational features of "The Lone Hand," his new play. Roy Stewart, the adonis of the screen who holds many records in the athletic field, proves himself a hero by jumping from a cliff through 25 feet of space and landing on a tree. A second was wanted to substitute in his place but to make this picture more realistic he insisted on taking this death defying leap himself. Stewart succeeds in making his escape from the bandits who are a terror him for a little hanging party. This feat makes this offering remarkable from an athletic as well as a dramatic point of view. "The Lone Hand" is the first offering put out under the auspices of Richard Kipling, the head of the organization who makes the wonderful Kipling's Classics and Kipling's Comedies.

This is a thrilling drama dealing with the outdoor western life together with thieves, cowboys, etc. Mr. Stewart is supported by a capable actress, Josie Selgwick and a splendid cast.

New Colonial Theatre

Edith Roberts makes the hit of her career in "Thunder Island," her latest Universal photodrama, coming to the New Colonial Theatre tonight. In this picture she plays an exotic role in Spanish characterization. Appearing as a Mexican girl in Lower California she is said to put into the role all of the fire and romance which endeared her to playgoers who saw "Lasca," "The Adorable Savage" and more recently, "The Fire Cat."

Although originally from New York, Miss Roberts has specialized on Spanish roles and interpreted them with dramatic fervor which is their heritage, in her recent Universal photodrama.

In "Lasca," she played the name role and depicted the poem of Frank Des Prez with a dash which rejuvenated the old classic of the Rio Grande and made it one of the year's most successful photodramas. Norman Dawn, who directed "Thunder Island," also directed "Lasca."

In "The Adorable Savage" she interpreted a South Sea Island role with added vigor and gave particular emphasis to the languorous and romantic love interest.

As Dulce Alvarez in "The Fire Cat" she exceeded her previous vivacity and stormed the citadel of her admirer's hearts with a passionate portrayal of a little South American girl in life's greatest moment. "The Adorable Savage" and "The Fire Cat" also were Dawn productions.

Because of her sympathetic interpretation of Spanish-American roles Miss Roberts has become tremendously popular in the Latin countries.
